Conscience is a popular word, and is always brought into requisition when one is hard run to find reasons for doing what he is resolved to do, tight or wrong. Principle and conscience forbid what our party don't want done, and they require just what our party desire to do. Conscience makes cowards of us all, somebody said; but that was an old-fashisned conscience. The modern conscience is of difference. We, with France and England not so unaccommodating. It follows where combined, can whip Japan, and that is the best over party ambitton leads, and, changes virtue into vice, or vice into tripide, as party necca-sity requires. This conscience carries a lamp to light up the way of party ambition and ca-

There is the pegro-mor pegrot but wonderiul type of humanity. What wonders he the war with Japani would have accomplished had it not been for the white min's in'quities and oppressions The white man seized the negro in Africa, where he was rich, free, happy and educated brought him to tile continent, compelled him work sorely against his will, made him igsoraut, like himself, and taught him all the vices and depravities which the negro would otherwise have known nothing about. Here is the negro how, with the same great qualities that he possessed at home in Africa, long ing to be foot loose, that he may show exploit of industry and progress, of talent and morals. which he exhibited at home where he was free, and which he sets a brillian example of now in Africa, in the British West Indies, and in Louisiana, where this modern conscience has led him in the way to freedom. After the example and nuder the domination of white men the negro has fallen from his high estate into ignorance, indelence and vice. So says this new conscience, and it behooves as in this age of progress to let loose the negro, that he may perform predictes of labor, intellectual, physical and moral, that will put to shame all other races of men.

Not long ago this same conscience, led, as now, by party ambition in this latitude, taught us that African slavery was a sort of Divine institution, set up by Noch when he got over that apree he took after the flood, whom he cursed Ham & Co. all to pieces, and imposed on us a religious obligation to make staves of the people of Ham in all time to c me. We were further taught that Atrican slavery was wrapped up in the Constitution and went with it everywhere, whether the white man was willing or not. Party ambition r. quired this, and dollars," repiled the Captain. and conscience sauctioned it all. Some had a These party consciences are very convenient. We have repeated the wrongs of the pegro, Why do we hear nothing of the wrongs of the corro in Africa, of the Indian in our own country? Ah, this conscience, this continental humanity, must wall on party amb'tion; it has no time to see other wrongs. If conclence were not chained to party, it would see crimes enough, vice chough, demoral'z ition enough amonget white men to occupy its attention. It would see that emsecipation is no remedy for the wrongs of the ucgro, but only au aggravation of his condition. But party conscience can't see

Civilization and the sword are teking pother step forward. O. course, when civil zation advances with such a parsuader as that, some feeble nation has to salmit to very positive dictation. The otj ct of our great rold, however, is not to acquire those useful articles. The Japanese Empire is rich in miner-

We have therefore to confederate together to make Japen open her ports whether er no. 80 we are three big bullies, and Japan rather a small one. The injustice of her exclusiveness is plainly apparent. We have some cause, or shadow of a cause, r our action in the matter, as the Japanese fired on our vessels after a treaty had been made allowing the continuance of the frade. As Japan is only a "halt-civilized" nation, no excuse is necessary; but it is well to give one, as the dogma that might is right docen's sound very creditable in such a case. The Jepanese, however, will not be able to see it in that light, as they return the compliment by describing us as outside barbarious. No natter what may be said of the matter, we are going to do it. We are not going to be injured by such an empire. In the larguage of the man who was charged with killing his neighor's lambs, "we won't allow snybody's sheep to bite ue;" and the Jopanese shall find it out by the aid of gaupowder, England and France,

We have also an excuse for intervention in nother way. The Dalmos, who are the princes of the several States of Japan, and are nominelly in rebellion, are the ones cherged with excluding us from their ports. We inpriere to put them cowe, and if we reap rich wards by it, why of course the laborer is vorthy of his hire.

English Court Gossip-The Love Fit and Lover of the Princess Mary of Cambridge.

[Prem the London Star, October 23.] The pages of Punch are among the last m which one would hope to glean a paragraph of gossip. But yet there is one men uts the staff at No. 84 Pleet street, who from his disposition and social position, is generally thoroughly informed of what is going on. To this gentleman we probably week's number—covertly, we say, because the writer founded his paragraph on a statement in a weekly paper comparatively unknown, and grafted thereon his own information; the result of which is that what Mr. Thackeray delighted to call a "R-y-l-p -a-g-e," and which no one will have the set difficulty in detecting as the Princess Mary of Cambridge, is sought in marriage by a nable viscount, whose army service ntitles him to all sorts of noble and galiant The lady-and the lady in question, besides being a princess, is a lady; the terms are not always synculmous—is agreeable, and all that is disagreeable is that wretched piece of legislation, the Royal Marriage Act, which requires the couseut of the Sovereign to the union of a member of the royal family to a person not of royal blood. This consent her present "Most Gracious' is not gracious enough to give; and though Mr. Punch, with an amount of saccharine matter which shows that he has not studied Mr. Banting's pamphiet, ax-pressed a hope that this will be forthcoming, yet the withholding of the royal approval is evidently the hitch in the matter. Let us hope that it will be finally graciously and gracefully yielded. In the whola Gualphic mily there is no ous more popular than the Princess Mary, and the people of England would infinitely sconer see her wedded to an English nebleman for whom she cares than to a German one whom she may never have seen. As to the name of the gentle-man, that is easily arrived at. Our friend unch says: " Ali happiness to Viscount Cuuilus." Scraps of achool-boy classic lore vat ingering in old corners of memory remind us of the old proverb, nen facit monachun -the heed does not make the menk -and then looking into that peerage which every well-regulated Briton keeps by him, wa find that Viscount Hood served in the guards; and lo, on the ingenious principle seribed to the first cooper of putting two and two together, the whole mystery is

NEW YORK, Nov. 27. It is secretained that the persons engaged in the attempt to burn the city came from Cana-da-most of them from Toronto and vicinity. The inspirity of the conspirators were officers in the rabel army, and had served as guerrillas in Kentucky and Missouri.

The movements of the incendiaries were arranged very uniformly at each of the hotels. They speared in the character of travelers, accuring rooms for a few days. They carried amail black leather vallees, put detitious names on the hotel books, and carried their own hargage to their rooms.

So far a discovered, they fired the Astor, Bilmont Hotel, Hanneh, Lovejoy, Metropolitan, St. Nichelie, Fitth Avenue, Usiled States, New England, Lafarge and St. James. The orginal plan was to simultaneously fire the hotels at the lower and apper part of the city, thus directing the attention of the Fire Department and police to the hotel fires and those of other public buildings is more central parts.

The us xt step taken would have been to fire the shipping, beginning with the hay-barges on the side of the ship and steamera. During this three of the gang were to sttempt the de-struction of the iron-clads now in the herbor. They had provided themselves with numerous lances, smoog which was a large quantity Greek dre.

Two citizens well known in this community without any fault of theirs were killed on the corner of First and Weinut atreets by being run over by the locomotive, as they were riding in a vehicle and about crossing the intersection of the two streets. Their usmes respectively were Augnet Snelder and Charles Herbet. The night was dark and no light was on the train. It was propelled at a velocity of fifteen miles per hour, and was in charge of a boy, acting as engineer, who had protested his inespacity for that position to his superior. A train in charge of the same boy had shortly before run over and killed a child buperior. A train in charge of the same boy had shortly before run over and killed a child on the same street, and he had then, with tears in his eyes, refused to serve any longer, but was prevailed apon by his superiors to continue his services. LOUISVILLE THEATER.-The first apr Miss Lee Hudson at this popular place of amuse ment on last evening was greeted with the largest and most fashionable audience of the season. The thrilling and intensely interesting drama of "Maseppa" was placed upon the stage, and produced in a manner never before equaled on our boards

Amusements.

Woodle THEATER.-This beautiful and cozy tem ple of the drams was filled to overflowing on las ing, on the occasion of the first appearance of of Avgust last. It was proved that he was at the "Bouines and Newton alliance" in the ster ling comedy of "Much Ado about Nothing." They murder—was committed laboring under a fit are truly a combination of no ordinary ability, and fully sustain the high reputation they have at tained in other cities. Their engagement pro to be a most brilliant one. To-night they will appear as Joerisse and Julia in the great play of "Joerlese, the Juggler."

The name of the guerrilla who was arrested on board the Tarascon, at Portland wherf, yesterday morning, is John Perry, and is a rative of Green county, Kentucky.

Two men, who are supposed to be merrillas, were arrested in the city yesterday and sent to the Excharge Barracks. Their names are Isaacs and Bennett,

Scarcely had with the Alabams.

The Times this forenoon gives a list of 3,000 wanted to know what her cargo consisted of. The captain informed the Lieutenest in charge that he had nothing of any account and no Government freight. The Lieutenant ordered supper for his party, and they seated themselv s along the table and waited for it to be prepared. A sumptuous supper was soon set before them, and they all purtock of it quietly and plentifully, after which they arose and made their appearance at the bar. Every man took a "decent drink" and quietly left the beat without doing any damage. The Lientenant Informed the captain that he had or ders to burn every boat he could get that was loaded with Government freight, and take possession of all horses and arms found in the bands of Home Guards, and to kill or capture all bushwhackers. He bid the captain good evening, thanked him for his attention to his and St. Louis, and was insured in the latter city men, and left the boat to proceed on her journey whenever she was ready. FINANCE AND TRADE

OFFICE OF THE LOCISVILLE DEMOCRAT, MONDAY EVENING, November 28th, 1864. The present week opened with a firmer feeling in the general market and an upward tendency in prices, though no permanent advance, except in hops, has yet been established. Flour remains nachanged, but with less disposition on the part of dealers to operate to any extent at the present quotations. The only transactions that we heard of were a few small sales to supply tha home demand at our quotations. Wheat closed with an spward tendency in priors and less disposition on the part of farmers to sell. In Corn and Oats we have an change to note. In the Grocery market there was a better feeling, and the market closed with a decided better appearance in prices. New Orleans Susar in hhds sold at 26c, Fiant-ation Motasses at 41 25. and Coffee at 45c for Rio, with a better demand than supply.

Owing to the fact that all the packers have decided to et, and prices advanced considerably, the market closlng very buoyant at 10% to 10% gross for hogs weighed at the packers' pens in this city. The Government ents are paying the same prices that the packers are and all heavy hogs that arrive meet with a ready sale The only transactions we heard of to-day were 200 hogs livered here at 10 % gross, and 700 head delivered at the farmers' pens in the country at 9% o gross, the latter being extra heavy hogs. Owing to the sudden change in the weather no hoss were packed to-day. This even-ing O. W. Thomas & Co. hast some I, 400 head in pons, and if the weather should prove favorable they will nmence slaughtering to-day. The other ho roughly set in we look for the packing season to com nence vigorously. The number of hoge packed here his season will no doubt fall short of previous seasons.

In Provisions we have no change of importance to ce, but little as yet being dona in new Mera Pork or Meats. To-day one of the packers was effered $34 cash for 400 bbis of new Mess Pork, which was refused. The opening price, as we have stated before will no doubt be $36, if not above that price. Bacon se sains unchanged, with nothing doing. Wa heard of a ale of 20,000 hams from the block at 16 kg. In financial circles the only change we have to note in in Gold, which was steadily advancing during the day. There is rather a larger demand for Money, and parties find loans were difficult to neactlate. Below we give the quotations of gold and uncurrent

Here is the little locket,
With slender streak of hair;
I yield it to thy loving grasp,
To envy it when there,
Take it, an i wear it at thy breaet;
When other lovers make
Such vows as I was wont to do,
Ob, keep it for my cake!
For I will keep thy lock of hair,
Which elster Lucy gave,
And told me 'twas from thee, my queen,
As escred as the grave.

As though the vows which they had you

Ay, though the vows which then hast made. Hereafter falsehood break, Yow by you bright loving eky, To keep it for thy sake!

I go into the stranger land,
To leave thee, love, behind;
Yet do not think that ont of sight
I sever ont of mind.
You know there ere exceptions, dear,
And shouldst thou prove a reke,
Why, still the golden piedge shall be,
"To keep it for thy saket"

AGRICULTURAL AND DOMESTIC.

EVERGREEN HEDGEs .- There is a number of evergreens used in forming hedges, which add much to the appearance of a well-kept lawn or premises. Some persons prefer one variety, some another. Undoubt-edly the hemlock spruce makes the most beautiful of all the evergreens recommended for this purpose. It always, in all seasons, retains its rich dark foliage, and can | couse they are the 1135T. be pruned to any shape that may be desired. It coessionally, however, suffers (ours never has) from frost in very severe inters, in certain localities, but not to tion. It is also rather slaw of beople, but quite sufficientits introdu.

people, but quite sufficientgrowth for some, "urpose; but when the ly rapid for this partain hight, and hedge once reaches a here is "none has been properly cared for, "will grow other like unto it." Besides, it "will grow other like unto it." Besides, it "none equally well in the shade as in the shad where the ground is rich and cool, and not too dry

The next in point of beauty is the American arbor vite. It is perfectly hardy—a fast grower—can be pruned to suit the fancy without the least danger, and though in winter it becomes somewhat rusty in appearance, it soon casts this aside when spring opens, and puts on for the season its compact, graceful living green. The objection to it is, that it will not do unless it has plenty of shade; nor will the other arbor vites. The Chinese arbor vite does not stand our winters fully, becomes ragged and is not to be recommended. Siberian arbor vite is perfectly hardy, and some think handsomer (we do not) than the American; but it does not answer so well for hedges, and cannot be pruned to so much advantage.

The Norway spruce is occasionally used for hedges, but it requires great attention to pruning, to keep it within proper bounds, and then it is only adapted to very large lawns or fields. It is quite out of place where the space is contracted.

There is nothing that adds so much to the adornment of a premises, after well-cultivated evergreen trees, than these perpetually leaved hedges. But just in the same proportion that they are attractive, are they the reverse if not properly managed. Nothing looks meaner than a neg-lected hedge, or an evergreen tree. Whenever we encounter them, as is frequently the case, we feel a sort of resentment against those who inflict such an eyesor upon good sense and taste, and desire to cultivate things in which they have no been educated, or have no instructor on the

Where shall we get our evergreens? is question frequently asked of us. We can give all inquirers but one answer. Read the advertisements which appear from tim time in our columns under the broad heading of "The Field and Garden," and choose one of the many goot nursery es tablishments printed there, visit the nu sery, and make your own selections. Be careful to avoid "country trees, hawkee about in wagons, or sold at auction, as no one in a dozen will grow, and that one you will wish hadn't! We would not pay one dollar for a thousand of them, except for As to the time of setting hedges, we prefer from the middle of March to the middle of May. They can however, be set out now and during this month, a period which is most approved of by some nurserymen. We have n doubt but that it will answer well enough, for there is no surer plant or tree to grow than the family of evergreens.

A Good Smokehouse .- We find the following in the Western Rural, with the above caption :

We lately observed a well-planned smokehouse on the premises of a good farmer, worthy of a brief description. It was about 6 feet square, the lower half built of brick, furnished with an iron-lined door, and serving as an ash-house and place for the fire. The upper part, about 4 feet high, besides the ascent of the roof was made of wood. It was separated from the lower part by scantling joists, a space of two or three inches between them, through which smoke and air could freel pass, but sufficient to cotch any ham the might accidentally fall, and thus save if from the fire. The upper part, as well a the lower, was entered by a door from the outside: this upper door may be kep locked, except when admitting or withdraw-ing hams; but the lower may be left un-locked, to attend to the fire, without any danger of the contents above being stolen, as the thief cannot pass through the openings between the joists.

STEAM-PLOWING IN ENGLAND .- The farmers in England are forming societies for the purpose of profitably employing the steamplow to cultivate their land. It is said to be vastly auperior to the old ayatem of plowing by horse daught. The time required in turning over the soil is so much reduced, that every advantage can be taken of the weather, and even wet days present no such obstacles to work with the steam-plow as with the old one. The earth is more effectually turned over, and more thoroughly and exactly prepared for the reception of the seed; and, above all, money is saved not only in the cost of cilling, but in the enhanched value of the crops resulting from the improved method of cultivation. Companies are formed for plowing and thrashing by steam, who rent to the farmers the use their apparatus, and they are said to earn a very large dividend; so that the new system must be profitable to both the farmer and the plowing company.

TAKING UP TREES .- The following relative to the taking up of trees for transplanting accords with the views we have often expressed, but they cannot be repeated too often; they were given at a recent meeting of horticulturists at New Haven:

An enormons amount of money is annually lost to tree purchasers from rude and unskillful taking up. Trees are torn up by the roots, as if the trunk and branches were the one thing necessary, and the roots superfluous. The prope way is, to open a trench on each side of the tree with a common spade, keeping the edge toward the tree, so as not to cross a root. These trenches should be far enough from the tree to avoid the main roots, and deep enough to go below all except a tap root, which may be cut off. This being done the tree may be pulled up with its roots

UGLY LOOKS AND A GOOD HEART,-Some newspaper philosopher, who is more so-licitous about the sound sense than the elegance of what he utters, expresses himself as follows on the subject of female beauty:

A lady with eyes that resembled peeled onions -and a nose as crooked as a politician's creed—a chin like a hoe, and a mouth stretched from ear to ear, and opening like ajack-knife, will be sooner respected and be-loved by those whose opinion it is worth one's pains to scoure, if she possesses a good heart and kind disposition, than if she were as beautiful as Milton's Eve, with a cork-screw disposition and heart of lead.

-The Londoners describe Adah Isaacs Menkin as beautiful, impassioned, daring and "not objectionable to the eye of delica-
